About the singers...

The Cherwell Singers were founded in 1979 bonded by a common cause to sing for relaxation while aiming at a high standard of performance. The choir consists of over twenty singers and performs a wide range of sacred and secular music in Oxford. The choir specialises in entertainment for conferences and charity events and unaccompanied and full scale concerts with orchestra. Recent highly successful events have included work with the Oxford Sinfonia and a widely acclaimed staged version of 'Dido and Aeneas'.
