About the Singers ...

The Cherwell Singers were founded in 1979 bonded by a common cause to sing for relaxation while aiming at a high standard of performance. The choir consists of over twenty singers and performs a wide range of sacred and secular music in Oxford. The choir specialises in entertainment for conferences and charity events and unaccompanied and full-scale concerts with orchestra. Recent highly successful events have included work with the Oxford Sinfonia and a widely acclaimed staged version of 'Dido and Aeneas' by Purcell.

If you would like more information about the choir, please contact:
Andrew Carwood, 82 Abbey Road, Oxford (Tel 727240) or Jane Carlton Smith, tel Oxford 251580.
